

INNER RESOURCES
LEADER MENTORING PROGRAM

The Arch of Leadership was created to help people develop the personal perspectives and practices that will nurture their ability to lead creatively, and over the long haul.

Each leader brings deeply personal and individual talents to this challenge. No single “training formula” will help every leader. The Arch of Leadership features individualized mentoring and group experiential learning programs to help leaders onto a self-directed path of life-long leadership learning.

Arch of Leadership programs are most appropriate for business owners, senior and mid-level managers and team/project leaders who confront leadership challenges every day.

The Leader Mentoring Program provides a series of eight (8) one-on-one mentoring sessions with a trained Arch of Leadership Mentor. Working through the Arch of Leadership’s Self-Discovery Journal with required readings and exercises, the individual gains valuable insights and perspectives on themselves that guide their process in developing their own leader brand.

In addition to the individual mentoring sessions, there are four group sessions with others in the mentoring program that is facilitated by the Arch of Leadership Mentor. The group sessions add another dimension of learning to the individual mentoring process. Each session is designed to build further support for the leader in bringing their day-to-day realities of leading into open dialogue on actual leader challenges, experiential learning to gain deeper insights into the impact of your leader brand and action ideas to put your brand to work right away.

The program is self-paced giving an individual the appropriate amount of time to work through each step of the learning, discovery and call to action process. We also give you unlimited contact with the mentor outside of the one-on-one sessions (primarily by telephone or email) to maintain a positive and forward-looking momentum in your learning.

This program will improve your ability to:

- Inspire others to deliver top-flight performance, unprecedented results, each and every day.
- Evoke dedication from your stakeholders so you can count on them to take initiative on your vision.
- Continuously develop your leadership skills throughout your career, and do it your way, not the hard way.
- Develop personal practices that enable you to sustain your energy, drive and commitment.
